Savor, stroll, and stay a while- experience Garden City

Producing incredible wine is Idaho's birthright, geographically speaking. With an ideal climate and near famous latitude for growing grapes, it's no wonder that the state is already home to over 65 wineries and cideries. A combination of the warm days, cool nights, and rich soil have drawn passionate and talented winemakers from all over to plant roots here. They create some of the most delicious and unique wine you'll ever taste, including classic varieties such as Syrah, Merlot, Malbec, Riesling and Chardonnay and more adventurous varieties like Tempranillo and Albariño.

AMERICAN VITICULTURAL AREA

Snake River Valley

The Snake River Valley American Viticultural Area (AVA), established on April 9, 2007, encompasses 8,263 square miles with 1,125 acres planted.

Overlaying ancient Lake Idaho, the shoreline creates its natural boundaries. The result is a distinctive wine-growing region whose ancient volcanic sediment has bestowed fertile, well-draining soil that gives growers better control throughout the growing process.

Visitors can explore the heart of Idaho's wine country with stops along the Sunnyslope Wine Trail.

AMERICAN VITICULTURAL AREA

Lewis-Clark Valley

The Lewis-Clark Valley American Viticultural Area (AVA), established on May 20, 2016, encompasses 479 square miles with nearly 100 acres of grapes and approximately 20 unique varietals. The Lewis-Clark Valley is known as a temperate-climate area which produces high quality grapes. With a low elevation of 725 feet above sea level at the inland port of Lewiston, this part of Idaho is sometimes referred to as the banana belt of the state.

Eagle Foothills

The Eagle Foothills American Viticultural Area (AVA), established on December 28, 2015, encompasses 49,815 acres with 100 acres planted. This sub-AVA of the larger Snake River Valley AVA is the only one located completely within the state of Idaho. Nestled in the foothills north of Eagle, Idaho, the slope and aspect of the Eagle Foothills play an important role in sunlight reception, cold air drainage and protection from frost and wind. The unique granitic soils and local climate of this area contribute to the making of excellent wines.

Regional Maps

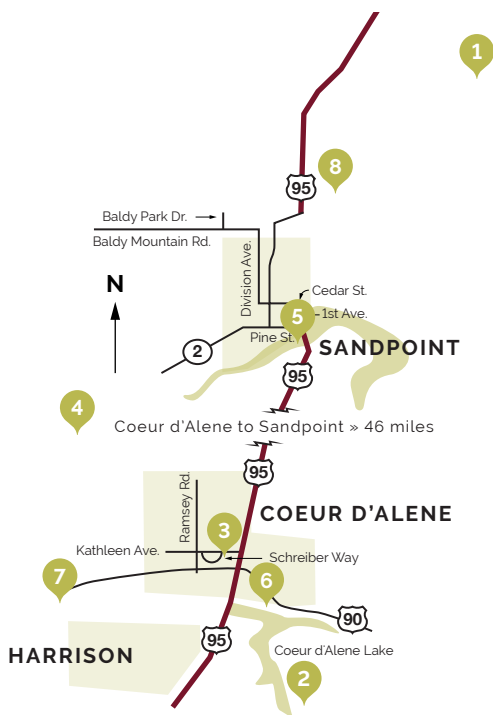

In addition to three AVAs, there are six distinct wine regions in this beloved state of ours. Each one has its own microclimate—a mix of geographical characteristics that contribute to the unique character of the grapes—as well as plenty to see, do and experience.

Coeur d'Alene & Sandpoint

Located in the panhandle of Idaho, Coeur d'Alene is surrounded by lakes—more than 55 of them—and shares its name with the most majestic lake of them all. Lake Coeur d'Alene casts a dreamy spell on the city, which is packed with dining, wellness activities, and shops. And the stunning views make for an outdoor lover's dream. This charming, yet laid-back region is home to six wineries, two cideries and is best known for its Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, and Chardonnay.

Lewiston & Moscow

Located in the Lewis-Clark Valley AVA, Lewiston is home to a small but growing wine scene with eight wineries in the region. The warm days and cool nights in this area are known for producing incredible Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Syrah, Sangiovese, Chardonnay, and Riesling. You won't find vineyards in Moscow, but you will find tasting rooms for the surrounding wineries and plenty to do. Hike through beautiful state parks, bike one of the many trails or hit a local farmers market. Take in nature views at the University of Idaho Arboretum & Botanical Garden, learn more about Nez Perce heritage and the Lewis and Clark Expedition in Lewiston or explore a unique horse breed in Moscow at the Appaloosa Museum & Heritage Center.

- 2 - Clearwater Canyon Cellars
- 3 - Jovinea Cellars
- 4 - Lindsay Creek Vineyards

South Central

Many of the wineries in the South Central Region are an easy day trip from Boise. The grapes cultivated in this region thrive due to the diurnal shift—warm summer days and cool nights. This unique climate contributes to the ideal balance of natural sugars and acids in the grapes. Additionally, the area boasts two cideries for those interested in exploring Idaho's growing cider scene.

Sunnyslope & Western Treasure Valley

The Western Treasure Valley is home to the Sunnyslope Wine Trail – a textbook expression of what it means to be in Idaho wine country. Situated along the western edge of the Snake River Valley AVA, the area experiences large temperature changes from day to night, typical of high desert climates. With its rolling landscape, picturesque views and vineyard-dappled hills, it's no wonder the region attracts wine lovers from all over. In addition to its many geographical gifts, the Western Treasure Valley and Sunnyslope are home to unique wineries, one cidery, welcoming tasting rooms and festivals worth traveling for.

Eagle

The Eagle Foothills AVA has some specific geographical conditions that result in wine with lots of character. The slope and aspect of the Eagle Foothills play an important role in sunlight reception, cold air drainage and protection from frost and wind. The rolling hills and nearby Boise River also provide a picturesque backdrop for hiking, biking, kayaking, canoeing or simply strolling along while exploring the vineyards.

Boise & Garden City

With a bustling nightlife scene, abundant shopping, plenty of outdoor activities and a growing community of food and wine lovers, our state's capital is a culmination of what makes Idaho so irresistible. Garden City lies just west of Boise along the river and is where visitors will find a range of tasting rooms and wine and cider experiences. This area boasts over 10 wineries and 2 cideries so there is something for everyone here, along with a warm, welcoming atmosphere and down-to-earth spirit.
