

Discover Idaho Wine (Consumer Boot Camp) - September 21st, 2026

10:00 AM - 10:45 AM

Skyline Vineyard Tour

Sawtooth and Skyline Vineyards have a combined acreage of 412 acres making it the largest vineyard site in the state. They grow 25 different cultivars of winegrapes that are sold to clients for red, white, rose, and sparkling wine. This fruit is grown to meet winemaking needs that range from bulk production to ultra-premium wines.

11:00 AM - 12:00 PM

Wine Tasting and Facility Tour with Telaya Wine Co at Telaya West

Telaya started in 2008, when they produced 50 cases of carefully conceived wine. They've grown quite a bit since then. Their facility — which includes a full production space and tasting room — is located right on the Boise Greenbelt, just minutes from downtown and a few feet from the Boise River. Guests can enjoy tasting flights, glasses and bottles of their wine while overlooking the scenic river.

Fujishin Family Cellars

Fujishin Estate Winery focuses on highlighting lesser known varietals such as Mourvèdre, Petite Sirah, and Petit Verdot. We have been producing wines in the Snake River Valley since 2009. In 2016 we purchased what is now Fujishin Estate and began producing Estate wines. We remain focused on the Snake River Valley and the Fujishin label currently only offers wines made from grapes grown within our AVA. Although our Estate Winery may appear large in stature, our presence remains that of a small, family-owned winery with a passion for good wine!

Additional tastings by Holesinsky Vineyard and Winery

Holesinsky's Vineyard and Winery was the first of a growing trend in Idaho's vineyards and wineries. It started with a dream, and was brought into fruition by winemaker, James Holesinsky, to honor his father, Frank's, lifelong dream.

With only the highest of artistic integrity, Holesinsky's Vineyard and Winery creates some of the most versatile flavors and highest quality, award-winning wines in the Northwestern United States.

Additional tastings by Veer Wine Project

Veer Wine Project is in the business of sharing the process of wine with their customers.

They would love their customers to grow with their brand as their young winemaker grows in his own craft. The winery will be transparent in an attempt to remove a barrier that seems to alienate any customers who may feel intimidated by wine.
