

IDAHO WINE COMMISSION

Welcome Packet

Dear Winery/Vineyard,

Welcome, we are excited to be working with you! To begin with, I would like to give you some history about the Idaho wine industry. Known for its breathtaking wilderness and perhaps more famously for its potatoes, Idaho is also home to a fast growing wine industry with award winning wines. Nestled between the Rocky Mountains and the Snake River, the Idaho wine regions nurture the grapes with a moderate climate, limited precipitation, and a consistent growing season that adds complexity to the grapes. Idaho is known for growing and producing vinifera wine grape varieties such as Syrah and Viognier, as well as classic varieties including Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon, Chardonnay and Riesling.

The first wine grapes planted in the Pacific Northwest were in the 1860's by French and German Immigrants in the Clearwater Valley of Northern Idaho. These wines were winning awards around the country, but prohibition in 1919 had a debilitating impact on the industry, bringing production to a halt until the 1970's. In 1976, 57 years after prohibition, Ste. Chappelle Winery began their operation, becoming the first commercial producer of Idaho wines and is now the largest winery in the state.

The Snake River Valley American Viticultural Area is the first registered AVA (American Viticultural Area) for the state, officially designated in April 2007. The AVA covers an area of 8,000 square miles and has comparable latitudes to many famous wine regions of the world. The immense size of the AVA is a great advantage for Idaho, allowing tremendous opportunity for growth. The approval of the AVA was a vast undertaking for the industry and has truly helped to propel the industry, gaining attention from around the world.

The Eagle Foothills American Viticultural Area was approved in November 2015. It encompasses 49,815 acres fully within the Snake River AVA as well as the state of Idaho. There are 67 vineyard acres planted with approximately 472 planned.

The Lewis-Clark Valley American Viticultural Area approved in April 2016 encompasses 479 square miles with 80 vineyard acres currently planted. Lewis Clark Valley AVA is made up of steep canyons of the Clearwater and mid-Snake Rivers and their tributaries.

From a geographical standpoint, area vintners insist, Idaho offers ideal growing conditions. The land in Idaho shows geologic evidence of volcanic sediment and an ancient lake that formed nearly four million years ago, giving the soil a unique terroir that is unique for growing. The wine grapes thrive in this distinct, four-season climate. The characteristic cold winters might first seem like a disadvantage, but are actually quite conducive, allowing vines to go dormant, rest and conserve important carbohydrates for the coming season, all the while ridding the plants of bugs and discouraging disease. In addition, the region's summer combination of cold nights and warm days serves to balance grape acids and sugars favorably. In the 30°-40° diurnal temperature variations, typical of this higher elevation, swings from 100° to 65° are common. The sugars remain high, nurtured during the long day by the abundant sunshine, while acids are maintained at favorable levels by comparatively cool evenings. Adequate sugar, on the other hand, is often the obstacle in Oregon, where early rains absorbed by the grapes and vines in the final stages of ripening dilute the fruit's natural levels of the substance. With such potentially ruinous precipitation also responsible for other assorted agricultural woes, including mold and rot, the Snake River Valley's lack of rainfall is considered a plus. Here, water is one element that can be controlled by the grower through irrigation, according to calculated timing.

The Idaho Wine Industry has been a steadily growing community in the last 30 years and has seen remarkable growth in the number of wineries over the past decade. With just 11 wineries in 2002, Idaho is now home to over 50 wineries. Currently there are 1300+ acres of premium wine grapes planted in Idaho, from Twin Falls to Parma and Marsing to Lewiston.

In order to see how much of an impact the Idaho Wine Industry is having on the state of Idaho, the Idaho Wine Commission (IWC) worked with Stonebridge Research to conduct an economic impact study. In 2013, the results concluded that Idaho's wine and grape industry contributed $169.3 million of total economic value to the state of Idaho, 1,226 full-time equivalent jobs, and $39.7 million in wages paid. This growth has led to increased visibility and tourism, as well as enhanced Idaho's reputation, creating a tremendous opportunity for expansion in the industry.

Overall, the Idaho Wine Industry is just in its infancy and is expected to see remarkable growth in the next 15 years. Idaho is learning as they go and will be making great wines in the process.

Please feel free to contact us at any time with any questions, comments, ideas, or suggestions you may have. We enjoy helping the Idaho Wine Industry grow and look forward to talking to those who help to create the industry.

Sincerely,

Moya Shatz Dolsby
Executive Director
Idaho Grape Growers and Wine Producers Commission

Idaho Grape Growers and Wine Producers Commission Dues

In order to be a member of the Idaho Wine Commission, you must stay current on dues each year. The assessment structure helps to fund the IWC's growth, aiding marketing and promotions to reach consumers and trade at new levels. In addition, the funding will assist in improving the quality and reputation of Idaho wines through research and education by funding vocational classes available to members. In order for the wine industry to continue its growth, funds have to be generated to effectively promote the industry.

The fiscal year runs from July to June of each year, with dues being sent out the beginning of May. The rates are different for Wineries and Vineyards. Remember, if you're both a winery and vineyard, you'll be charged for each. In order to ensure no late penalties, the IWC must receive payment by June 15th.

In addition, each winery and vineyard has the opportunity to "opt out" of the Commission. If you choose not to become a member, you must send in a letter to the Idaho Grape Growers and Wine Producers Commission no later than June 15th of each year stating your intent to opt out, name, and address.

Rules of the Idaho Wine Commission

To read the official rules of the Idaho Grape Growers and Wine Producers Commission, please visit: <http://adminrules.idaho.gov/rules/current/48/index.html>

Seminars

Periodically throughout the year the IWC hosts seminars to inform the wine industry about various topics. Keep an eye out for e-mails throughout the year mentioning these seminars that provide valuable information to its members. There are minimal costs associated with these seminars. If you have an idea for a seminar or know someone who would like to speak at one, please let us know.

Commissioners

There are a total of 5 Commissioners who serve the IWC. Each is a member of the Idaho Wine Industry. There are 3 Growers and 2 Producers that act as Commissioners, each serving a maximum of 2 terms, with 3 years per a term. If you have an interest in becoming a Commissioner in the future, please attend the monthly Commission meetings to learn more about the position and get involved.

Board of Directors

Mike Williamson, Chair – Williamson Vineyards
Melissa Sanborn – Colter's Creek Winery
Earl Sullivan – Telaya Wine Co.
Greg Koenig – Koenig Vineyards
Crystal Potter – Potter Wines

Idaho Messaging

Mission Statement:

“The Idaho Wine Commission (IWC) is the education and information source that markets and promotes all Idaho wineries and growers.”

5 second Pitch

Idaho has a growing wine region with the natural resources to sustain world-class vineyards and wineries.

- If you only have 5 seconds need to get across natural resources and potential. When talking to media need to come back to these two principles as often as possible. Try to repeat at least 3 times in interview to get them to hear and write it down. Even say these are the two most important things I think about the Idaho wine industry.

30 second Pitch

Idaho has a growing wine region with the natural resources to sustain world-class vineyards and wineries. Our warm climate, well drained soils and direct access to our water sources provides Idaho the key ingredients for fruit forward wines with good structure.

Additional Resources

WineAmerica

WineAmerica is the National Association of American Wineries, helping to promote and develop American wineries and winegrowing. WineAmerica is the voice for American wineries when it comes to state and national policy. In addition, it provides assistance to wineries with the operations of their business. WineAmerica has originated important programs such as the Wine Market Council, promoting national wine consumption; the State Associations Council, providing communication for legislative issues that affect wineries and the American Viticulture and Enology Research Network, to establish research priorities.

Being a member of WineAmerica is beneficial as an array of membership services and benefits are offered at a value that covers the cost of dues. Some of the benefits of being a member include: monthly newsletters, label facilitation and regulatory compliance programs (including status updates), and wine showcased at Congressional and State receptions. Also, as a member, you receive discounted shipping rates up to 50% off FedEx, comprehensive insurance plans, and a $300 annual discount on age verification software. For a complete list of member services and discounts, please visit the links below.

Idaho State Police (ISP) and Alcohol Beverage Control (ABC)

As a winery it is your responsibility to post your wholesale prices through the Idaho State Police. Prices are allowed to be changed every 30 days. In addition, if you plan to participate in an event off-site, you must fill out a Winery Sponsored Event form at least 7 days prior to the event date. This application must be e-mailed to ABC abc@isp.idaho.gov for approval. If you fail to do so, you cannot participate in the event so make sure to fill this out ahead of time.

Alcohol Beverage Control is conducted by the Idaho State Police and all rules must be followed. Alcohol Beverage Control is implemented to ensure all businesses that sell or produce alcoholic beverages, including wine, are properly licensed and all rules are obeyed. You can find invaluable information on their website when starting up a new winery, and continuing to run one throughout the years.

Tax and Trade Bureau (TTB)

The Tax and Trade Bureau's mission is to ensure all wine products are labeled, advertised, and marketed according to the law. The Tax and Trade Bureau strives to protect the public. The TTB carries out these responsibilities by developing regulations, conducting product analysis, and ensuring tax and trade is complied with according to the Federal Alcohol Administration Act and the Internal Revenue Code. Every winery must have a TTB number in order to operate and produce wine, entitling such to be labeled a winery in the state of Idaho and produce its own label. For your wine to be accepted, your TTB number must be approved prior to sales.
